Calm between the Storms

You were probably preparing for a cyclone the last time that I reported here for HAPVRA (Hunua, Ararimu, Paparimu Valley Resident's Association).

The Wairoa River that flows through Paparimu, Ararimu and Hunua valleys and Clevedon swept across many properties; swirling branches, fence posts, even unwieldy baleage across and through wire fences.

12 weeks on, some in our valleys are still cleaning up while many count ourselves among the lucky ones especially compared to the East and West Coasts. Midst the silt and debris, the coming together of communities, picking up shovels, reaching out to neighbours is what has helped people survive. It's not over. Weather forecast monitoring has become an obsession.

Some people are just spent. As washed out as their properties. Authorities advise that we need to be 'resilient'; equipped and capable of surviving for at least 3, possibly 5, days after a significant weather event.

Out here, this resilience involves a reliance on local resources, tractors, generators, diggers, people power.

Ripple effects

With HAPVRA's focus on resilience for the 3 valleys, a group is being formed to develop a clear, actionable plan. We are keen to collaborate with other organisations. One of the learnings shared from the West Coast Kare Kare group was to establish a WhatsApp group for comms through the community. We set this up as a more reliable method of connecting across the valleys, as well as using the HAPVRA Facebook page to share safety, emergency and weather updates.

At the time of writing this column, as I sip coffee made with tank water boiled in an electric kettle, I know there is promise of more to come; perhaps 100ml or more of rain and the Harry Potteresque 'atmospheric rivers' to navigate.

In another consequence of Gabrielle, one of HAPVRA's newest members (Paparimu) suggested the need for a First Aid refresher course. This initiative aligns well with our intention of resilience and self-sufficiency, and the response from locals is healthy.

Flow on from village market

On 25 March the Hunua Village market welcomed several fundraisers; with Paparimu and Hunua Schools and Hunua Playschool baking, making, cooking, frying and playing ukeles in aid of essential projects. With the help of Zealandia's bountiful seedlings, local businesses coming to the party, and the 'world famous in Hunua' raffles, HAPVRA raised over $1500.

Funds from the market are donated back into the community; this time to YMCA Camp Adair which has had more than its fair share of flooding. HAPVRA has also helped fund the outdoor cabinet case for the AED defibrillator at Paparimu School. Further funding is tagged for a Community Spirit development programme with the 3 rural schools, however this is on hold while we recalibrate for resilience.

The Hunua Village Market is a biannual event (25 November is the Christmas date) and a community mainstay. Aside from the obvious financial advantages to stall holders, I couldn't help but compare the experience to what might be happening in malls across the city on a Saturday morning and breathe a small sigh of relief. The only mobile phones I could see were being used to capture and share smiling images of the market's festivities.

Jane Berney, co-chair of Hunua, Ararimu, Paparimu Valley Residents Association.

Concert raises funds for those affected by Troubled Waters

The iconic sound of legendary folk-rock duo Simon and Garfunkel will ring out on the Pōhutukawa Coast on Saturday 20 May in a one-off concert to raise funds for Red Cross New Zealand's Cyclone Gabrielle Relief Fund.

Hosted by the Pōhutukawa Coast Presbyterian Church, talented musician brothers John and Simon Chapman will perform the best of Simon and Garfunkel's well-loved repertoire, as well as share the story of the award-winning American singers.

Loved by millions around the world, the acclaimed singer songwriter pair rose to fame during the '60s and '70s, releasing five studio albums laden with top 10 hits including three number one chart toppers - Mrs Robinson, Sound of Silence and Bridge Over Troubled Waters.

"Their music is timeless as a lot of folk music is," says John Chapman, who spent his formative years in Clevedon. "I've played a lot of different music but I always get a great reaction from all age groups when they hear Simon and Garfunkel."

He says he and his siblings grew up listening to Simon and Garfunkel, popular with his parents, playing in the family home.

"But I think what really switched me on to their music was watching a video of their Central Park concert in the '80s when I was a teenager," says John. "I was learning to play the guitar at the time, so I basically learnt all their songs - they really inspired me as a performer from then on."

John's own high school band won the Auckland Battle of the Bands in 1989.

He played at a local Clevedon restaurant for seven years, and gigged in various pub bands as well as forming his own bluegrass band called The Hey Boys.

Brother Simon's musical talents also included high school bands but his passion has leaned more towards musical theatre, starring in numerous lead roles in theatre events. He also leads contemporary worship at Clevedon Presbyterian Church.

John recently turned his admiration for Simon and Garfunkel's music into creating a tribute concert that he and Simon performed to sold out audiences for last year's spring music series held at All Souls Anglican Church in Clevedon.

John says while it is hard to choose, his favourite Simon and Garfunkel number is the classic 'Sound of Silence'.

While both brothers sing and play various instruments, for their upcoming Simon and Garfunkel concert John, who sings bass, will be on acoustic guitar and Simon, a tenor, will play the digital piano and guitar.

John describes the event as "an intimate evening featuring great music" raising money for a good cause - flood relief in New Zealand.

"We'll be performing around 17 or 18 of their numbers as well as speaking about their history and musical career and a bit about our own musical backgrounds."

The concert is titled Bookends, after the fourth album released by Simon and Garfunkel in 1968.

The famous duo won multiple Grammy awards, including the Grammy lifetime achievement award in 2003. Their music has remained popular over the decades and across generations, with more than 100 million copies of their records sold around the world.

The fundraising concert on Saturday 20

May starts at 7.30pm in the acoustically designed Pōhutukawa Coast Presbyterian Church auditorium, 5 Jacobs Way, Maraetai.

Tickets cost $20 per adult, $50 family concession or $10 for students. All proceeds will go to the Red Cross New Zealand Cyclone Gabrielle Relief Fund.

To book, text or call Heather Chapman on 021 714 274 or email heathermchap@hotmail.com

LOCAL STUDENTS' NEWS, VIEWS & LITERARY TALENT

This column features news, views and literary talents of students from Beachlands, Maraetai, Clevedon, Brookby, Hunua, Paparimu, Orere and Ardmore Schools.

One student featured each week will be presented with a certificate and a $20 book voucher, thanks to Barfoot & Thompson's Beachlands and Whitford branches.

Would you rather be super smart or incredibly kind?

Life is always hard but what if you could have some skill to help you? But what would it be - super smartness or being incredibly kind?

I personally would rather be super-smart. Yes, kind people are humble and don't boast, but smart people can be modest which is in fact the same thing as being humble. If you're smart you can be working on something and even if it's not working you're patient because you know how it needs to be fixed. I think kind people would be under constant pressure to keep being the one source of supplies as they're always giving stuff away like food and money. I believe that no one should be under that pressure. Also even if a smart person is under pressure they'd know how to deal with it. It would also help with school work which is a big bonus!

Smarts can have a big impact in your everyday life. With your family, your house, even your career. Being smart can help in lots more ways than you'd think. Yes, being kind may mean you find a great partner, but who said smart people can't be nice? Being smart can make running a household much easier. You would know how long you need to wait before doing the load of washing. Or if you have kids you'll know how to create a nice schedule to fit in all their activities. If you're super smart you can get amazing jobs. You could be a lawyer, a scientist, an inventor, an astronomer, an animator, a vet, whatever you want to be. (This will give you lots of money!) Also most people can agree that it would be quite cool to know nearly everything. Probably even you!

Orere Point brigade's first female retires after 25 years

If you want a job done, give it to a busy person. In Ōrere, that person is Barbara Spicer!

Barbara's 25-year contribution to the Ōrere Point Volunteer Fire Brigade was acknowledged at a luncheon organised by her brigade colleagues last month.

When she put on her fire service uniform for the first time in 1998, Barbara became the first female to join the Ōrere brigade.

Barbara says she initially joined the fire service to meet new people, shortly after she and her whanau moved to Ōrere Point.

"It didn't take long to make life-long friendships and figure out I had joined a great organisation," says Barbara.

Those friendships, and the connection with the wider community, led to 25 years of keeping her fire service pager on.

"It's the people, within all aspects of rural fire and the fire service. I've had good support, especially being a female in what is a very male-dominated emergency service. The community have always respected the station and all the crew. And I've been given opportunities to learn new skills and to work with very talented people," she says.

When she was appointed Chief Fire Officer of the Ōrere brigade in 2015, she became the first Maori wahine in Auckland to serve at a volunteer fire station.

"I'm very proud of that," says Barbara.

Barbara has seen a few changes during her time with the service. "There's more emphasis [today] on the safety and well-being of a fire fighter. Training is now more structured with agreed pathways. The not-so-good is the commitment you have to give to keep yourself current by attending courses in the weekends, even having to take time off from paid employment. It's not as easy these days to recruit volunteers, people are so busy and time poor."

But Barbara says there are many good reasons people should consider joining their local volunteer fire brigade. "To meet new people, learn new skills, self gratification, sense of community duty. To be involved in an organisation that truly cares about their volunteers."

Barbara says the Ōrere Point community is a particularly special place to serve. "It's a little bit of a time warp... when the siren goes off people still come to the gate to wave you off. People are very respectful and friendly so you want to be there to help where needed. The station is always looking for volunteers, so if you want to find out more about what's involved, come to the station on Tuesday night when we have training, and meet the team."

The nature of the job means that there have been tough times too.

"A couple of years ago we were called to a horrific incident," recalls Barbara. "It was an attempted suicide. It wasn't so much about the incident but about how afterwards the crew, along with wrap-around support from FENZ, were able to help each other to heal. The healing process brought us all a lot closer."

Barbara's commitment to her community doesn't begin and end with the brigade. Ōrere Community and Boating Association chair Edward Pram describes Barbara as "the biggest contributor to Ōrere".

Edward says it was "quite a big thing" when Barbara joined the fire brigade as the only female in 1998.

"Since then she has been involved in just about everything," says Edward.

Barbara's past and present community involvement includes being a First Responder for St Johns Ambulance, a member of the Ōrere Community and Boating Club committee, editor of the community newsletter, involvement with the Kawakawa Bay/ Ōrere Health Clinic, and a member of the Ōrere School Board of Trustees. Barbara also played a key role organising the community's 100-year ANZAC commemoration.

"She's been our emergency team leader from start to finish," says Edward. "A lot of people take for granted what she does, but not getting paid for 25 years involves a lot of sacrifice - family, time and training. She deserves to be well recognised for her efforts," says Edward.

Barbara Spicer was presented with this Patu, made by locals from river stone from the Ōrere river. The pōhutukawa base came from a fallen tree on Ōrere beach. Photo / Facebook.

After 25 years on the brigade, Barbara is retiring from her role, and there are many people she would like to thank. "My crew, past and present. Bryan Cartell who was Principal Fire Officer for Auckland - he promoted and supported me in the role of CFO. There's so many other people but I have to thank my husband Tim Stoneham who would get up in the middle of the night to open the gates when I would get called out, and on many occasions he was left alone to entertain visitors because I've had to leave. He's my biggest supporter."

Community views sought re memorial

Some residents are proposing that the temporary ANZAC memorial used at this year's Beachlands/Maraetai Dawn Service (pictured above) be replaced with a permanent memorial.

Following on from the popularity of this year's ANZAC dawn ceremony for the Beachlands Maraetai area, local resident Michael Sommerville says many locals have expressed the desire to create a permanent memorial at the northern end of Wakelin Road in Beachlands.

"A number of years ago the Manukau Beautification Trust designed and produced the wooden wall that has been used in recent years," says Michael. "However, its life expectancy is limited and with the numbers attending ANZAC services on the rise - about 500-700 this year - we are seeking a more permanent solution."

A committee has been formed to progress the concept, with the aim of having a permanent memorial in place for ANZAC Day 2024.

The committee will arrange public meetings to give local residents the opportunity to have their opinions heard on both the design and location of the memorial. These meetings will be notified through the PC Times and the Pōhutukawa Coast Grapevine Facebook page.

Council invites further submissions on Beachlands South development

Auckland Council is giving local residents a further opportunity to express their views on Beachlands South Limited Partnership's (BSLP) application to rezone and develop the land currently occupied by Rydges Formosa Golf Resort.

After the initial plan change application was lodged, Auckland Council asked for BSLP for further information relating to many aspects of the application.

BSLP supplied the information, which is available to read online at www.aucklandcouncil.govt.nz/planchanges (scroll down to see Plan Change 88).

The public has two weeks to lodge any further submissions for or against the application. Submissions open 12 May 2023 and close 26 May 2023.

Local youth take to the stage

Howick Children and Youth Theatre (HCYT) looks forward to treading the boards again after what has been a disruptive couple of years due to Covid.

The theatre's first three shows of the year are the Charles Dicken's classic Oliver Twist, adapted by Jeremy Brock, the comedy On the Razzle by Tom Stoppard, and the well loved fairy-tale Snow White and the Dwarfs of the Black Forest by June Walker Rogers.

Local Beachlands residents Reuben and Miriam Gedge have been attending HCYT drama classes for several years and both are really excited to perform.

There is a lot of hard work involved in putting a show together, not just while at rehearsals, which are held several times a week, but many hours are also put into learning lines at home.

Reuben plays the cruel Mr Bumble in Oliver Twist, a pompous character of self-importance, while Miriam has the challenge of playing several roles in On The Razzle, and is bringing quirks and individuality to her characters - the Ragamuffin and a waiter.

The shows perform between 25-28 May, at the Harlequin Theatre in Howick. Tickets for all shows are now on sale. For full detail on dates and times visit www.hcyt.org.nz

FOOD & ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

Thai Chickpeas & Quinoa Bowl - by The Kai Box

INGREDIENTS:

- ¾ cup of red & white quinoa, rinsed
- 1 makrut lime leaf
- 1 veg stock
- ½ TBs sesame oil
- 1 TBs olive oil
- 1 TBs soy sauce
- 1 TBs red Thai curry paste
- 1 tin chickpeas, drained and rinsed
- 1 red capsicum, finely diced
- 1 carrot, peeled then grated
- 120g bag of mixed baby leaf lettuce
- 1 spring onion, finely sliced
- ½ lime, cut into wedges
- fresh coriander

PEANUT SAUCE:

- 2 TBs peanut butter
- 1 tsp maple syrup
- 1 TBs soy sauce
- ½ lime, juiced

METHOD:

1. Pre-heat oven to 180°C. In a small pot bring 1 ½ cups of water to the boil and add the quinoa, veg stock and the makrut lime leaf. Cover and simmer for 15-20 minutes until all the water has cooked away. Remove from heat and discard the leaf once slightly cooled.
2. In a large deep frying pan, heat the sesame and olive oil, then add the red curry paste and soy sauce and stir until lumps are gone, adding a splash of water to help make a smooth paste. Then add in the chickpeas and stir and fry until chickpeas are well coated.

Then transfer onto a non-stick or lined baking sheet and spread out. Bake for 15-20 minutes or until golden and crunchy.

3. Make the Peanut Dressing by whisking all the ingredients together until smooth. Use a little hot water (1tsp) to help soften the peanut butter if it's quite stiff.
4. Then assemble your bowl with a

5. serving of quinoa, the lettuce, red capsicum and carrots, chickpeas and a drizzle of the peanut dressing. Garnish with coriander and spring onions.
5. Serve with a wedge of lime, and lettuce, add salt and pepper to taste.

Predator Free Whitford

Bait and Trap Day

Sat 27 May, Whitford Community Hall,
1 Whitford-Maraetai Rd, 9am – 12pm

Presented by Predator Free Whitford, with support from Predator Free Franklin, Franklin Local Board and Auckland Council, among others.

The purpose of the Bait and Trap Day programme is to resource and support landowners in the wider Whitford area to undertake pest animal control on their properties. This is in line with the Predator Free 2050 goal, and targets similar species.

At this drop-in event, pest experts will be on hand to advise people on the best control methods for the pest animal species they want to target on their properties.

Free traps and bait will be available, or a donation can be made to pay it forward. In return participating landowners will need to register their property details, provide basic details of their pest control (i.e. type of bait and traps received) and agree to provide regular updates on the success of their pest control.

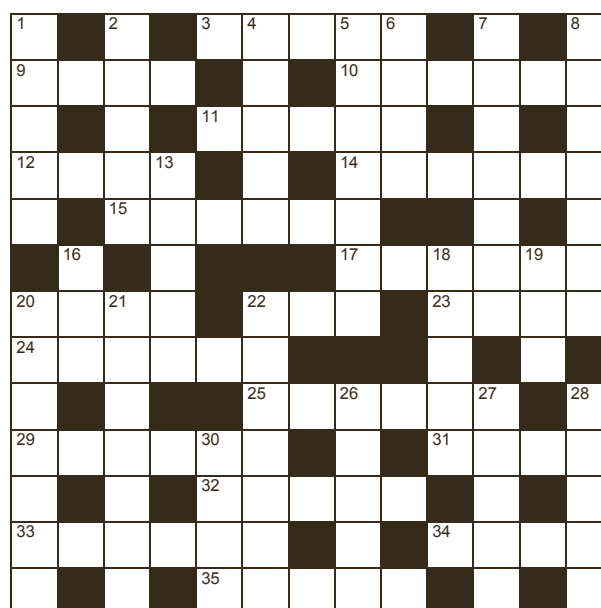

Please email

Lenny at lenny@predatorfreefranklin.nz with any queries.

PC Times Catch of the Week photo competition

Finn Gillard (age 13) and his dad Wayne had a great day kayak fishing on ANZAC Day. Finn and Wayne went out on their viking kayak called 'Raider' from Sunkist Bay. Many snapper were caught and returned but when Finn pulled in this 62cm snapper they just had to keep it. Finn had so much fun catching this from the kayak and is passionate about fishing. The soft bait jig head and soft bait used had just been purchased from GAS Maraetai a few days earlier. It was fresh snapper for dinner on ANZAC evening!

To enter the Catch of the Week photo competition, email your photo and details about your catch (where it was caught, name of the boat, what you did with the fish, plus any other special details) to liz@gasmaraetai.co.nz. The weekly winner will receive a $50 Top Catch voucher from GAS Maraetai, and the season winner will receive a fishing rod and reel.

Coastal Cat Rescue 'Cat of the Month'

Jaffa

Jaffa and Cheeto are adorable siblings. They are friendly, playful, loving, well-adjusted and characters in every way. They would make perfect additions to any family including those with supervised, gentle children. Due to their closeness, and the circumstances that brought Jaffa and Cheeto to us, we will give preference to someone wanting to share life with a pair of little orange fluff balls. These kittens would definitely add double the fun and double the love.

Jaffa and Cheeto are neutered, micro-chipped (will be registered to new owner), have received their first vaccination, are vet checked, treated for fleas and worms and come with six weeks pet insurance (subject to Terms and Conditions). An adoption donation will apply. If you would like to know more about Jaffa and Cheeto please Email bailfscourt@gmail.com, Join Coastal Cat Rescue on Facebook and PM or text and leave a message on 028 4200124 (this phone is not manned and messages will be cleared as time allows).
