School says haere rā to Mr Noble-Campbell

After seven years steering the ship, Beachlands School principal Anthony Noble-Campbell is moving on to a new role with Totara Hospice.

The decision to leave was made after working with a life coach, his doctor and his family. Anthony says “many voices” said it was time for something different.

His new role with Totara Hospice will see him work as part of a multidisciplinary team involved in spiritual care of terminally ill patients and their whanau. It’s a role that Anthony describes as a real privilege, and a natural fit for the skills he has developed over 34 years as a school principal.

It was Beachlands School’s FERN (friendship, encouragement, respect and nurture) values that attracted Anthony to apply for the principal role seven years ago.

“I said at the interview, is this something we just teach, or is this something we live, and is it something we live in school? Is it something that lives in the heart of this community? Is it about all of us? And the interviewers said, “it’s about all of us”, and I said, “I’m in.”

It was those school values, combined with the school motto of living and growing together every day, that created “a tremendous environment and work setting,” says Anthony.

“There is no problem, there is no challenge that can’t be overcome, because every day we learn and grow together. At Beachlands School, we work together for the best possible outcome of the learners. That outlook is a real treasure of the school, and that’s what drew me to the school. And I feel I was authentic to that kaupapa.”

There have been many highlights over the past seven years, but Anthony particularly acknowledges the work of his staff and students during the pandemic.

Plan changes, private plan changes, fast tracked applications

It seems they never stop... Whilst there are always numerous developments that sit within the unitary plan, it's these out of the box ones that take a lot of resources (time and cost to all parties) to work through to a suitably practical outcome.

It's crucial that the cohesive planning mechanisms and stakeholder engagement take place allowing decisions to be made with future growth, cumulative effect, cost, parties benefiting and affected and mitigation measures amongst other considerations evaluated. A community has to put a lot of faith in all this being approved and implemented as intended. When a plan change falls well short of the intended purpose - as with the Whitford Manor (plan change 27) - it makes a community very nervous when an extremely large private plan change like Beachlands South (PPC 88) looms at the back door, particularly when that development can only be accessed by travelling through the arterial routes of that community.

Plan change 88

There has been a bit mentioned about the Beachlands South Limited (BSL) development over the past few months. Auckland Council, Auckland Transport and ourselves (WRRRA) appealed the decision of the commissioners to approve the development. From the WRRRA perspective we felt that a better traffic plan solution was required to suit the needs of the Whitford village, and all road users. The key considerations were continuing the functionality and aesthetics of the village, the efficient flow of traffic, road safety and where the burden of cost sits for the roading infrastructure.

In 2004 a Whitford roading study was undertaken by Manukau Council to address growth in Beachlands/Maraetai with the view that when it met a certain level it would trigger the agreed Whitford Roding Study plan, which was entered into council's 10 year plan. As the population growth had not reached those levels, the roading study plan was not included in council's recent 10 or 30 year plans (although the numbers have reached the trigger point over the past few years). The unprecedented size of Beachlands South's development should immediately trigger the proposed transport plan. The NZ Super Fund says it aims to build quality infrastructure. This is a great opportunity for them to invest in the roading network between Beachlands and Whitford and beyond. A bypass of Whitford village to Sandstone Road would provide a good separation of traffic travelling towards Botany or Flat Bush/East Tamaki with the former still going through the village.

BSL's roading proposal would have an immediate permanent detrimental impact on the village for a temporary means until the bypass is constructed at an undetermined point in the future. That just doesn't make sense for what is meant to be a master plan. Additionally, significant safety concerns remain over the lack of consideration for Clifton peninsula/Trig Road. This would be an ideal time to address a better plan for traffic going to/from Clifton peninsula and from the Whitford Landfill. Despite this, overall we are confident that an agreement can be reached between the Beachlands South stakeholders, AT and AC and ourselves.

Whitford Manor

The Whitford Manor wastewater discharge issue still remains unresolved. The residents are still in the unenviable position of having their wastewater trucked away with a significant dispute between them and the developer over the cost of removal. An earlier judicial review barred discharge of wastewater into the Turanga Creek in an approved variation to the original wastewater consent. A lot of time was then spent by the various stakeholders attending meetings, evaluating solutions and ultimately agreeing a way forward. However whilst the onus was on the developer Le Coz to lodge a new application, this still hasn't been done despite there being leaks from the plant, odour issues and breach notices issued. This is where our nervousness about other plan changes originates. What was a pretty well thought out solution to pollution in the Turanga Creek has now become a major problem for all residents in the Manor, whilst also hampering growth within the village (which the wastewater plant was intended for in the first place). All this could have been avoided if the developer hadn't changed the original wastewater discharge consent. That original consent had been worded better and Auckland Council had done some fact checking as to the reason why this was sought.

Brookby Quarry

As has also been covered recently by the PC Times, the fast track application to remove 30ha of native bush in Brookby Quarry is not popular. The removal of the Significant Natural Area including the 13ha of taraire forest is an incredible blow for our ecosystem. DOC and Forest & Bird have expressed their disapproval, and the local pest control group who have worked on improving the biodiversity in the area for close to 20 years are disappointed with the application. On the whole it seems that the fast tracked nature, the need for the increased volumes and the mitigation proposed within the application are all areas of concern.

So currently the Whitford Residents and Ratepayers' committee feels as though we are in some sort of Bermuda Triangle of applications/development that will significantly change our landscape in the future and potentially with long lasting detrimental effects if the checks and balances are not in place.

New Beachlands club '261 Fearless' hits the ground running

Global women's running organisation 261 Fearless has launched a group based in Beachlands, aimed at offering a regular running/walking group for women aged 18+. 261 Fearless is a non-competitive, non-judgemental social running club with groups all over New Zealand, including in Auckland, Wellington, Palmerston North, Ruapehu and Christchurch.

261 Fearless' Beachlands group was founded by two local women passionate about the importance of movement. In order to set up the group under the 261 Fearless banner, they have trained and qualified as running coaches with the organisation.

About 8-10 members of the running/walking group meet each Thursday at 10.15am during school terms, by the playground at Te Puru sports fields.

Coach Anna Bassett, who has been with 261 Fearless for six years, is keen to see the group grow and says all women are welcome, no matter what their age or ability.

"It doesn't matter how fast or slow you run, or if you run or walk, you're welcome to come along. Come and meet people, get some fresh air and exercise. No woman is left behind. Exercise is especially important as we age, and we cannot underestimate the positive effects of social interaction on our well-being."

Anna emphasises the need to focus on many aspects of exercise – balance and co-ordination are as important as speed and strength. "And of course laughter is just as important as a personal best!"

Coach Aneela Lala joins the group from a strong background in running and trained as a 261 Fearless coach last year, along with nine other new coaches from around the country.

"261 Fearless is for women of all abilities, and if you want to run and have some weekly social fun, come along!" says Aneela.

Anna says the group would love to increase frequency of its "meetruns" if offered, and is looking for more women keen to train as coaches to enable the group to do this. "Our next Train the Trainer weekend is in Auckland early next year, and we would love another local coach or two!"

Members of the Coast's new 261 Fearless running group are taking positive steps towards their well-being.

Group member Sarah Rachel says joining the group has helped her technique and allowed her to meet new people. "I've learnt better ways to run like a proud woman with Barbie arms, which sounds super weird, but helps a lot. Coming along most weeks has got my running up to 30 minutes, and I've met some great like-minded women in our community."

261 Fearless is named after the bib number (#261) worn by American runner and founder Kathrine Switzer, who was the first woman to run the Boston Marathon in 1967 as an officially registered competitor. During the race, Switzer was assaulted by the race director, who tried to pull her out of the race. Switzer managed to finish the race in four hours, 20 minutes, and calls this her "Fearless moment".

Women who are interested in joining the group can search for the 261 Fearless NZ page on Facebook, contact abassett@261fearless.org or simply turn up on the day.

New contenders: local duo impress at their first MMA event

The performance of two locals at a mixed martial arts (MMA) event has been described as “amazing” by their Jiu Jitsu coach John Mellows.

Adam Nairn and Ben Olsen stepped into the MMA ring at the Shuriken Grassroots event on Auckland’s North Shore last month. For both, it was their first MMA event.

Adam won his first round by submission in the amateur category, while Ben won his first round via knockout in the same category.

For both fighters, it was the culmination of an eight-week training regime that saw them commit to two hours of practice each day.

A team of coaches supported them on their journey, including Boss Hunia who has over 20 years experience in Brazilian Jiu Jitsu and wrestling for MMA.

In the lead-up to the event, Boss set out an eight week plan for Ben and Adam.

“It was imperative that they committed to that eight weeks, training six days a week, twice a day,” says Boss. “There were actually about four guys that were interested in going down that path, but only Adam and Ben could honestly commit. And they did.”

The pair were very coachable, says Boss. “They always had their ears open. They just took every instruction. Both of them showed a huge commitment. And I think their results just speak for how hard they worked in the lead up to those fights. They’ve set the standard. Adam has only just turned 17, and there were a lot of young guys at the event, including some of his friends from Howick College. He was a great example of what you can do with your time in a positive environment. He’s a neat young man.”

Adam took up Jiu Jitsu two and a half years ago, and over the past year has begun learning MMA.

“It was fun training for it, it’s probably given me something to do and stay busy. It’s made me enjoy the sport even more, to be honest.”

Adam admits it can be scary getting into the ring to fight, but insists the adrenaline pay-off is worth the nerves.

“You get a bit nervous before the night,

L-R: MMA competitors and coaches Barend Nienaber, Adam Nairn, Ravinder Hunia, Ben Olsen, Boss Hunia

and leading up to it. You get a little bit scared of what the outcome could be, I think that’s all part of it, you know.”

Boss says that Jiu Jitsu in particular is a great tool for young people to build up their confidence and discipline.

“I think in this day and age, a lot of families don’t have a stay at home parent, both mum and dad have to get out and work to make ends meet. The kids get left to their own devices, and are literally on devices sitting in front of screens or just idle hands, you know, which can lead to getting in trouble. So I think when you’ve got a gym that’s teaching Jiu Jitsu, bit of boxing, bit of kickboxing, it can cater to a lot of appetites. And I think it’s easy to create an environment where the kids just feel like they belong there, and feel that they’re making progress in their life. They feel like they’re a part of something. And I think it takes the weight off mum and dad. If they’ve got something to look towards and they enjoy it, it’s going to keep them out of trouble.”

Mixed martial arts allows competitors to fight using a techniques from a range of disciplines such as wrestling, Jiu Jitsu, judo, taekwondo, boxing, kickboxing and Muay Thai.

“It’s really a few tools from a lot of sports bundled into one,” says Boss. “I think it’s the biggest test in combat sports there is, because you have to be well rounded in everything.”

Boss says a number of other local coaches have been integral in Adam and Ben’s success, including Neil Swailes, a Beachlands resident with over 30 years experience in all aspects of martial arts; Whitford resident Barend Nienaber who has professional MMA experience in the EFC; and Ravinder Hunia who has 10 years boxing experience both as coach and competitor.

“And of course John Mellows for bringing Brazilian Jiu Jitsu to the Coast and allowing us to extend into MMA,” says Boss.

John Mellows says he is very proud of Adam and Ben’s achievements.

“As club it was our first outing in the MMA world, we really made a splash on the night. They did amazing,” says John.

Beachlands School says haere rā to Mr Noble-Campbell

“Like most principals, for me it was the way in which the staffing community and the children responded to distance learning during Covid. The impact on our lives, our families. The government said that schools must continue, and the teachers were so innovative and inspirational in the way that they created online videos and learning and connections. And the way in which, when digital devices weren’t possible, the staff made hard packs and delivered them out to letter boxes around the community, to make sure that those children weren’t isolated.”

Another favourite initiative revolved around a soft toy giraffe named Harold. Harold lived in the school office, and each day a different year 1 student would get to take Harold home for the night, documenting their time together in a book.

“Harold was a real friend, you know. The children just loved coming to the office, knowing that they could take him home and then do things with him.”

The book containing the children’s experiences with Harold will remain at school, so that when the students reach year 8 they can read about what they loved as five year olds.

Working with local historian Fay

Fransham, and the extended family of foundation principal Christina Malone, was a special time too.

“At every school I’ve been at, I’ve researched where we started because it is important to know the roots we start from. Now each year we present the Christina Malone medal for bringing the best out of others, in the spirit of our foundation principal.”

The past seven years have been “big”, says Anthony. Along with the challenges presented by Covid, the school roll has experienced rapid growth, necessitating the use of temporary buildings and construction of a new school block. New playgrounds, astroturf and a bike track have also been added.

“The kids had to learn to use space differently. And then we found that all 700 of us couldn’t use the hall space to meet together. We were just too big. So we had to split our gatherings - half the school go in, the other half come out. There’s a sadness that we can’t all be together, and we can’t even meet in our meeting place.”

Anthony has spoken to the ministry and written to the Prime Minister about the need for a larger meeting space. “They just say there’s no money. How do we stay connected when we can’t be together?”

The school has started looking at a large shade cover over the astroturf but at a cost of about $500,000, funds will need to be raised.

“I understand that the government’s struggling to balance spending, and education is just one of those sectors that needs attention, but that something so important to us is not even on a list...”

One thing that has made a big difference to the culture of the school is the local community.

“Our community is very generous with their time and their skills. They’ll come in and help out with programmes, particularly things like careers. They’ll come and share, and inspire our young ones. There’s so much generosity in terms of giving time to help with education and sports days, and with lighting and sound systems for our productions. It’s a community school. The community sits at the heart of everything.”

Local iwi Ngāi Tai ki Tāmaki have also played a significant part in the school’s culture.

“I just want to acknowledge Ngāi Tai ki Tāmaki, especially the late James Brown, the late Huhana Turei, and Zaelene Maxwell Butler for their presence in this school, for their leadership, for the sharing of history with us.”

Now the time has come where Anthony says he has given the role everything, and it feels like a natural time to move on.

“I have to walk away, not with any sadness, not with any regret, I just totally gave it everything. And we’re at a new level now. There is going to be further roll growth. There’s going to be further buildings. We’ve got a new curriculum coming in with the government. It’s time for a new principal to lead and inspire that next level transition.”

Lisa Bethune will take on the role of acting principal until a new principal is appointed to start in Term 1, 2025.

Anthony has a final message for the residents of Beachlands: “Thank you for the love and support of me, for the kindnesses expressed to me, for the generosity of time and skills shared over the last seven years and for the high engagement in the school. Beachlands School sits in the heart of this community. It’s fantastic.”

Three years ago both Beachlands Dairy and Karishma Super Market attempted to add vape products to their shops. At that time the Beachlands Community were against this to the extent protests were held outside these businesses. This in turn stopped the sale of vaping products.

We now see Karishma have a vape facility and Beachlands Dairy are currently building theirs. Both of these shops are close to Beachlands School with a large number of students visiting the shops after school.

Recent media coverage demonstrates the health issues caused by smoking and vaping. I am a smoker myself, but question whether we want these type of outlets in our community.

Pointways wraps up three-day show hunter series

Pointways Pony Club in Alfriston has provided learning, camaraderie and fun for riders on its 100-acre property since 1947, and the club's recent sold-out Show Hunter series proved it remains a popular venue for equestrians.

The three-day series has been an annual fixture since the mid 2000s. Show Hunter focuses on the horse's performance, style, and way of going, rather than just speed or agility. It is distinct from show jumping, although both disciplines involve jumping over obstacles. This year's event saw judges assess 158 rounds each day, where riders and horses of all ages and abilities faced jumps ranging from 40cm to 1m.

Ponies were judged separately from horses.

Young Clevedon rider Savannah Styles won first place on her pony Ruby Tunes, while the Hack series (for horses measuring over 147cm) was won by Carly Andrews (Pukekohe) and her horse Silver Moon.

Pointways Pony Club would like to thank sponsors Veterinary Associates Equine, Animal Stuff and Quality Presentations.

The club's next event will bring fast paced jumping action to the arena with the New Zealand Equine Academy 3-day Show Jumping Series on 28 July, 11 August and 25 August.

Savannah Styles with her pony Ruby Tunes won the pony division of the Pointways Pony Club Show Hunter series

Fabulous foccacia!

The ultimate in comfort food, this freshly baked foccacia pairs perfectly with a nourishing bowl of soup.

Ingredients:

- 500g white flour (or use bread flour for a better result)
- 420ml warm water
- 1T extra virgin olive oil
- 1.5 tsp instant yeast
- 1 tsp honey or sugar
- 2 tsp salt
- 5T extra virgin olive oil, to line the pan and drizzle
- 1 tsp salt, to finish
- 2 rosemary sprigs

Method:

- Add warm water, olive oil, yeast and honey to a bowl and whisk together.
- Add the flour and mix until you have a dough. Scrape down the sides of the bowl and cover with a tea towel, resting the dough for 15 mins.
- Turn dough out onto bench and do some 'stretch and folds', picking up a corner of the dough and folding it over the top, repeating on each of the 4 corners. Cover again and let rest for a further 15 mins.
- Repeat the stretch and fold routine. Cover the bowl and let dough rest for 90 mins at room temperature.
- Drizzle 1T of extra virgin olive oil on the baking tray. Place baking paper on top of the oil, then drizzle a further 3T of olive oil onto the baking paper and spread it evenly.
- Place rested dough onto the oiled tray. Fold the dough into thirds, forming a burrito-like shape. Flip the dough upside down so the smooth side faces up. Cover and leave to sit for a final 1 hour and 30 minutes.
- Preheat oven to 220C. Drizzle dough with olive oil and dimple the dough by pressing your fingers into it. Add any toppings you like. Bake on lowest rack of the oven for 18-23 minutes. Enjoy warm.

Student Voice

LOCAL STUDENTS' NEWS, VIEWS & LITERARY TALENT

This column features news, views and literary talents of students from Beachlands, Maraetai, Clevedon, Brookby, Hunua, Paparimu, Oere and Ardmore Schools.

One student featured each week will be presented with a certificate and a $20 book voucher, thanks to Barfoot & Thompson's Beachlands and Whitford branches.

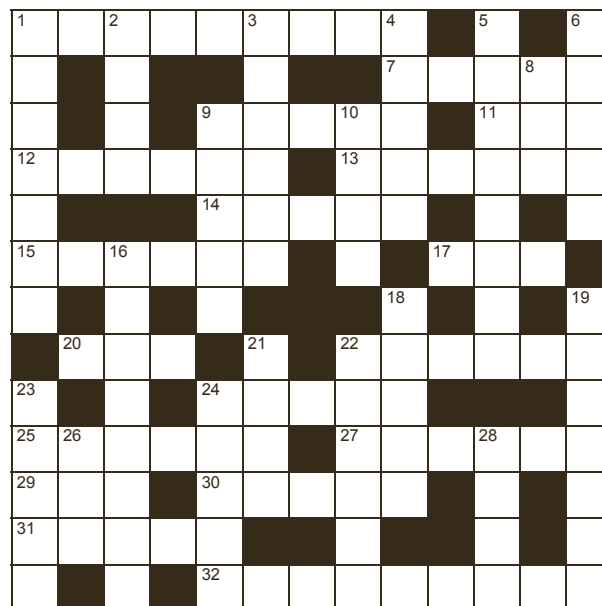

This week's voucher sponsored by Stuart Fitzpatrick

In the vast expanse of the cosmos, where stars danced like distant fireflies against the inky black canvas of space, a lone man drifted in his spacecraft. His name was Aiden, an astronaut on a mission to explore the far reaches of the galaxy. As he gazed out of the window, mesmerised by the beauty and emptiness that surrounded him, he couldn't help but feel a sense of awe and insignificance.

Aiden was a man of few words, his thoughts often drifting far beyond the physical realm in which he found himself. He had always been drawn to the mysteries of space, to the unknown and the uncharted territories that lay beyond the reach of human understanding. And now, as he floated in the solitude of his ship, he felt a sense of peace and tranquillity unlike anything he had ever experienced before.
