Local developments included in Fast-track Approvals Bill

The previously-rejected Sunfield development in Ardmore could be considered again if the new Fast-track Approvals Bill is passed this year. Image source / Winton.nz.

A proposed “green” development adjacent to Ardmore Airport is back on the table, after being rejected in 2022 by then-Housing Minister Megan Woods.

The Sunfield development was recently approved as one of 149 projects listed for inclusion within the Fast-track Approvals Bill, which is expected to go before Parliament for its second reading this month. The Bill will be passed into law before the end of the year.

Winton, the development company behind the Sunfield proposal, describes the 221-hectare development as a “15-minute” sustainable neighbourhood where residents can access most of the things they need in life within walking or cycling distance, including schooling, employment, healthcare, restaurants and bars, recreational spaces, retail and food supplies.

If approved, the car-less, solar powered development built around a single loop road will comprise of 460,000 square metres of employment, retail, healthcare and education buildings, a 7.6-hectare town centre, a school, 3400 houses, 3 retirement villages consisting of approximately 600

Beachlands South on Fast-track list

Beachlands South, the large development proposed for the Formosa site, is one of 149 projects included in the government’s recently introduced Fast-track Approvals Bill. The Bill is expected to go before Parliament for its second reading this month, and could be passed into law before the end of the year.

The original Beachlands South resource consent application was approved by an independent hearing panel earlier this year, but was appealed by a number of parties who are currently in talks with the developers.

The new Fast-track Bill is designed to speed up approvals for certain infrastructure and development projects, with the goal of boosting economic recovery and addressing urgent infrastructure needs.

If the Fast-track Bill is passed, the Beachlands South project can apply to the Environment Protection Authority, which handles applications for projects of national significance, such as large infrastructure developments or major environmental projects. An expert panel will then assess the project.

Editorial by Franklin Local Board Wairoa representatives

It's great to see the groups we've supported as part of our Community Partnership Programme cracking on with their work.

We are working with more than 20 organisations across the district. Instead of coming to us every year for money, we've formed partnerships that fund the groups for three years, with the first year allocated but years two and three able to be varied in line with performance.

It's an approach that means we do less administration and more to benefit you.

Funding groups this way did mean a lot of debate, but we eventually identified groups working in projects that focus on Māori, young people, arts and events, accessibility for our disabled and aged communities, business, safety, and tourism.

As usual we had nowhere near enough, just $400,000 for groups doing work that needed around $1.5million, so inevitably some missed out and others received less than they wanted.

Included in the list of those funded are the Clevedon Community & Business Association, which we have a long association with, and we look forward to forging even closer bonds.

The Hūnua, Ararimu and Paparimu Valley Residents Association made the list for its environmental work in one of the more isolated parts of our community, while we elected to partner with Camp Adair too, given its wide-reaching role.

We are also helping fund Coastguard Maraetai, Pōhutukawa Coast Rotary's trolley derby, free children's play at the Clevedon A & P Show, and Takutai Charitable Trust in Beachlands intergenerational work in schools.

Auckland Council is asking how our environment should be protected. Consultation closes on 8 December, so time is running out.

The other day we were at Brookby looking at progress on the Papakura Stream Restoration Project, where the property owners told us they had seen birdlife returning and the water quality improving.

Neighbours have joined the scheme, allowing more planting, and it's an excellent example of what can be done, with much of the credit due to Conservation Volunteers NZ.

That's hands-on involvement but if you want to be involved in shaping the strategy over the next decade complete an online form on the Have

Your Say website, complete and email it to protectourenvironment@aucklandcouncil.govt.nz, drop it at a library or post it to Protect our environment, Freepost 190198, Private Bag 92300, Victoria Street West, Auckland 1142.

Summer is looming and that means the return of beachgoers and the problems they can bring. We will again be working with our colleagues around behaviour because it's been good to hear some of the situations we have endured before have improved with the presence of enforcement officers and police.

We are the first to plead that visitors respect our environment and take their rubbish home. It's not hard to pack a bag to ensure you leave only your footprints behind.

We have been attending Annual Budget briefings. You may have seen Mayor Wayne Brown proposing changes for Auckland Transport, Tātaki Auckland and the Eke Panuku Development Agency as part of the budget process. You'll get a chance to give your feedback early next year.

As ever, if you see something that needs attention, call 09 301 0101 or log it at www.aucklandcouncil.govt.nz and request a logit reference. You can also email Angela Fulljames, Malcolm Bell or Amanda Hopkins - firstname.surname@aucklandcouncil.govt.nz

Tractor accident claims life

A person died following a single vehicle crash involving a tractor in Hūnua on Wednesday 13 November.

Police were notified just after 11.30pm that a person had not returned home after spraying weeds at an isolated rural property on Paparimu Road.

The Police Eagle helicopter did a fly over the farm at around midnight and located a body and a tractor that appeared to have rolled down a bank.

Emergency services responded to the area and confirmed the person was deceased.

WorkSafe have been notified and the Serious Crash Unit is investigating.

Rising star dances to new heights at national champs

National dance champ Daphne Laker. Images / supplied.

Thirteen-year-old Daphne Laker from Maraetai is the best dancer in the country, and she has the trophy to prove it.

The year 8 student at Maraetai Beach School swept the board at the recent national championships where she competed in multiple categories including jazz, musical theatre, lyrical, traditional and commercial contemporary, as well as her own choreography. Daphne placed first in every section she entered. Her standout performance in jazz saw her awarded the national championship trophy.

Daphne says she has been dancing “since she was born”. This year’s road to champs began with the Auckland regional dance competition earlier this year, where Daphne performed in the ‘accelerated dancer’ section which required participants to quickly learn and perform a dance combination. Judges selected the top three dancers, who got the opportunity to compete again with one of their own solo dances for a chance to win a prize. Daphne’s performance secured her top three placing, earning her a spot at the nationals.

Reflecting on her new status as national champ, Daphne says: “I was so happy to win the trophy. I’ve participated in many competitions, but I’ve never won anything this big.”

Along with the crystal trophy and sash, Daphne also received a scholarship for a summer dance workshop in Australia, another scholarship for a New Zealand workshop next year, and a choreography package with a top New Zealand choreographer.

It is a thrilling achievement for the dedicated young dancer who trains for about 12 hours per week across ballet, contemporary, jazz, acro, and tap.

“I love expressing my emotions through dance,” Daphne says.

“It keeps me active, and without it, I’d probably just be sitting in bed all day!”

Daphne hopes to pursue a career in dance, perhaps teaching or traveling the world while dancing. She says her dance mates are her greatest inspiration.

“They keep me going and we look up to each other just like we’re celebrities.”

Fundraising 2025 calendars showcase the best of the Coast

A collection of vibrant photographs captures the essence of the Coast in the just released 2025 calendars by two local photographers, fundraising for the Beachlands Volunteer Fire Brigade, and Maraetai Coastguard/the Pōhutukawa Coast Community Response Team.

In this, her ninth calendar for the Coast, Beachlands photographer and graphic designer Britta Saxer has captured a different view for each month of the year. Moon phases and high tide times for every day are also included.

The A4-sized calendar comes with an envelope for easy mailing to family and friends here and overseas.

Britta sponsors the calendar through her business Saxer Design.

She loves that her calendars, often given as easy to post Christmas gifts, end up in homes around the world, showcasing her much-loved community.

Measuring A4 in size, the calendar even comes with an envelope for easy mailing.

The calendars are available at Beachlands Post Shop, Wakelin Road Pharmacy in Beachlands, and Gas Maraetai, or online at www.pohutukawacoast.nz.

Britta says she is happy to post calendars on behalf of people who purchase.

“Best of all, every purchase supports the Beachlands Volunteer Fire Brigade, dedicated to serving our Pohutukawa Coast community,” says Britta.

Photographer Claude Therond has produced his seventh annual fundraising calendar.

“This year it is a fundraiser for Coastguard and the Pohutukawa Coast Community Response Team. The response team is a relatively new charity and I wanted to help raise awareness of what they do,” says Claude.

independent living units and care beds and 27.7 hectares of open spaces, green links, recreation parks and reserves and ecological offsets.

A renewable solar energy network would help power an electric shuttle fleet to transport residents within the development, and to nearby train stations.

Speaking to the PC Times in 2021, Winton said the development will allow residents to live and work locally, “increasing their quality of life with better air quality, safer neighbourhoods that are quieter, more diverse, inclusive, economically vibrant and not reliant on cars.” Winton said garage-free homes and less roading would lead to lower development costs.

When the development was proposed in 2021, it drew concern from occupants of the neighbouring airport which is located on the development’s eastern boundary.

At the time, the NZ Warbirds Association based at Ardmore shared its concerns about the proposed development with the PC Times.

“It doesn’t require much imagination to see the conflict between the proposed eco village lifestyle and a very busy airfield,” said Warbirds president Frank Parker. Frank said the proposal generated concerns about safety and noise for aircraft operators.

“If the area directly under the take-off

and landing path is urbanised, there is a very real and serious safety consideration in the event of an aircraft malfunction,” said Frank.

“We are concerned that future Sunfield residents who will be wooed by the promise of an ecological nirvana will find in reality they are living in a recognised aircraft noise area.”

When deciding whether to include Sunfield in the list of Fast Track Approvals Bill projects, Minister of Housing Chris Bishop declared a conflict of interest and handed the decision making to his colleague Simeon Brown. Bishop had supported the project in 2021 when the National Party were in opposition. Bishop denied that significant monetary donations to the National Party made by people associated with Winton prior to the 2023 election was a conflict of interest.

Ace goes fishing for trouble

- by Franklin Vets

Now that the weather is warming up, just a friendly reminder to keep fishing hooks with bait away from dogs!

Fishing hooks with bait can be particularly enticing to dogs, leading to uncomfortable situations.

Ace, a 2-year-old retriever, recently experienced this firsthand. After being tempted by meat left on a hook after the kids went eeling, Ace ended up with the hook embedded in his cheek. Due to the barb, it couldn't be pulled out easily.

Under sedation and local anaesthetic, the hook was carefully pushed through the cheek and cut behind the barb to remove it.

To prevent such incidents, always keep fishing gear out of reach of pets. Store hooks, lines, and bait securely when not in use. If you're fishing with your dog nearby, ensure they are supervised and kept at a safe distance from your equipment. Additionally, educate your family about the dangers of leaving fishing gear unattended.

In case of an accident, come and see us at Franklin Vets as soon as possible. Do not attempt to remove the hook yourself, as this can cause further injury. Wishing you tight lines and an enjoyable summer.

Coast's growing community boosts u3a membership numbers

100+ members, and counting! There are signs of growth at u3a Beachlands-Maraetai.

u3a (which stands for University of the Third Age) Beachlands Maraetai is a community organisation boasting more than 100 members. u3a focuses on fun, friendship and learning for positive ageing, and says it is capitalising on the Pōhutukawa Coast's recent population growth to recruit even more new members.

The club recently replaced its sign sporting its new, distinctive branding outside Ambrosia Restaurant in Beachlands. Further signs will soon appear around the Coast inviting people who are no longer working full-time or bringing up a family to join their activities.

"We are aware this area is growing fast and has new, potential members moving into the area. We believe most of them want to be actively involved in the community and continue their lifelong learning in a friendly environment," says u3a president Mike Groves.

Mike says u3a provides a monthly meeting for members to hear stimulating guest speakers and an opportunity to meet new people. The club also runs special interest groups who meet at least once a month to explore subjects ranging from antiques to art, geology to genealogy, and writing to world travel.

"Our members come from all walks of life. We have already had an influx of new members, but we would like to see more," says Mike.

He says the club is grateful to local retailers, cafes and organisations who have supported their efforts by displaying their promotional material.

"You do not need qualifications to join u3a and our annual membership fee is quite modest."

The club meets at 10am on the fourth Thursday of the month at the Pōhutukawa Presbyterian Church on Jacobs Way, Maraetai. Visitors are welcome and morning tea is provided.

127,000 trees and counting! Stream restoration volunteers celebrate

Landowners and conservation volunteers came together to celebrate a year's worth of hard mahi last month, when Conservation Volunteers New Zealand (CVNZ) hosted a gathering at a Brookby property.

CVNZ has worked with 11 landowners to date, planting 127,000 trees along the Papakura Stream and its tributaries which flow through Brookby.

So far 4,000 days of volunteer time have been dedicated to the project, with 2 tonnes of rubbish removed from the stream and 2 hectares of weeds controlled.

Brookby farmer Nicky Auld is one of those involved with the project. She and husband Mark have undertaken significant native planting on their 400 acre farm over the past 15 years, with fenced wetland and stream areas now providing a haven for native fauna.

The Papakura Stream project will continue next year, and CVNZ says it hopes to achieve its goal of having 200,000 plants in the ground.

Right: conservation volunteers and local landowners celebrate a year of planting along the Papakura Stream in Brookby.

New touch-free carwash technology comes to Botany

- by #1 Supreme Carwash

We are proud to yet again offer our customers the very latest in automated vehicle wash innovation.

Seven years ago we installed New Zealand's most advanced brush car wash machine - the Supremo Autowashe. To follow up with this highly successful innovation we are now offering the very latest touch free car wash system fresh out of the USA.

The Razor Double Barrel is a game changer in touch free vehicle washing, and is the first of its type in this country.

So, what is new with the Razor Double Barrel? For a start this machine is on steroids compared with its predecessors with a wash time of 7 minutes for our top wash. The blue wash arch that tracks around your vehicle is guided by sensitive laser beams following the exact shape of your car offering more precise coverage with its two-step hot chemical application. The combination of chemistry and hot water far out-performs conventional high pressure car wash machines.

When it comes to the washing cycle, within the arch is a dedicated manifold that delivers water blasting at 1200 psi via 10 turbo nozzles and 5 overhead chisel nozzles. This is how the machine gets its name "Double Barrel".

After these cycles tri colour foam is added and then drying agent and a ceramic sealant agent are applied then followed by a spot free rinse. The final process is a double pass drying cycle via three mega powerful blowers.

1 Supreme Carwash offer the very best combination in automated car washing on Botany Downs main drag, Ti Rakau Drive. You don't have to go out of your way to experience this, just look for the roadside signs and take a left hand turn onto Amera Place.

In addition to our automated vehicle wash offers, we still offer our immaculate seven self-service bays and seven self-service vacuum stations offering mega powerful suction.

Over the last 24 years we have earned the honour of being one of Botany's "stood the test of time" convenience business.

If you are not one of the hundreds of regular callers at #1 Supreme Carwash, discover car washing made easy by calling in.
