BARFOOT & THOMPSON'S 'CANFISH' MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Every year, approximately 4,200 children across New Zealand face the impact of cancer. Whether battling their own diagnosis or supporting a family member through illness, these young people experience immense stress and uncertainty.

The Barfoot & Thompson Canteen Fishing Competition, known as "Canfish" is precisely about a break - a day of joyful distraction, camaraderie, and fun. Mike Deverell, of our Beachlands branch, has passionately spearheaded this inspiring event for the past four years.

This year's Canfish event welcomed 31 young participants from across the country, some traveling as far as Invercargill to Pine Harbour Marina, and through Mike's dedication and the generosity of countless locals and businesses, Canfish continues to offer a remarkable day of joy, community spirit, and hope.

THRILLS AND SPILLS AT THE BEACHLANDS MARAETAI TROLLEY DERBY

The sun came out in full support for this year's Beachlands & Maraetai Trolley Derby and our team was there again to cheer on the racers, and run our always popular chocolate toss game.

Special thanks to everyone who stepped up for a go - $488 was raised over the morning for the local Rotary club!

CELEBRATING TOUCH IN THE COAST

Some of our proudest ongoing sponsorships involve supporting our local sports teams, and Wednesday 5th March was a rewarding showcase of our involvement at the season close prizegiving for Pohutukawa Coast Touch!

As the exclusive sponsor, BT Beachlands was represented by Branch Manager Daniel Wei, tagged in to help hand out well-deserved medals to the players 🏆

We're still offering our community printing service - for a donation in our Starship bucket we can help you with your printing and scanning needs! Since our last update, we've raised almost $300 in loose change to be donated to the Starship Foundation.

Editorial by Ngāi Tai ki Tāmaki CEO Jada Macfie

Over the last twelve years (excluding 2021 and 2022 due to a sneaky stoat refusing to be trapped), Ngāi Tai ki Tāmaki has been thrilled to help establish a Kiwi Kōhanga or nesting place on Motutapu with Te Papa Atawhai/DOC and Save The Kiwi. And this month marks the first time we have received official survey results from the last two years, which has tracked the success of the programme, with some pretty exciting results.

Motutapu was chosen as the site for the kiwi kōhanga as it is a 1,510 hectare land mass which is connected to Rangitoto by a tidal causeway, and is pest and predator free. While Kiwi are only released onto Motutapu, they are curious birds who do like to roam and explore, with calls having been recorded on Rangitoto. Given there are no natural springs or water sources on Rangitoto, musters have been held to bring kiwi back from there given the terrain can be harmful longterm to their beaks and feet. To prevent them from returning, as they like to imprint on favourite places, the Rangitoto adventurers need to be translocated again and we are exploring options of a swing gate on the one bridge between both motu as an immediate deterrent. We have also since discovered, however, that if a Kiwi wanted to swim/scrabble in the water, they do have the ability.

The idea behind the kōhanga has been to take Coromandel Brown Kiwi in their first year, once they are of a reasonable size and health, to Motutapu to establish themselves and interbreed in a pest-free environment, then bring some of their offspring back to protected spaces in the Coromandel-Hauraki region. We jokingly refer to Motutapu as 'Love Island' as we also have had the Takahē breeding programme take off in recent times.

We have been honoured in recent years to have some of our team members work closely with Save The Kiwi, who lead the translocations from the hatcheries to Motutapu, learning to become Kiwi Handlers. There is a certification process required, as Kiwi are, despite their large fluffy exterior, very delicate. Mishandling can result in injury for these delicate birds which is hard if not impossible to undo, so the pressure of having these iconic birds placed in your arms can be incredibly daunting.

Having personally handled four, and only extracting one from its travel crate then releasing it into its new burrow, it is not something you want to rush. We can only do this work at certain times of the year, when birds are a certain size, when the weather and our nerves permit.

Excitingly, however, the recent Call Survey undertaken in 2024 has shown that the original founder population of 145 kiwi has been estimated to have grown to between 260-320 birds on the motu. Adding to that the growing Takahē population as well as other taonga species we have introduced over the years, we are excited that the regeneration and restoration of the motu is working. While pest control when visiting via boats is more important than ever, we do look forward to being able to host Kiwi tours and visits in the near future so stay tuned. And as we say on the motu, 'Mauri Kiwi'.

Mixed reactions as Council proposes repurposing Beachlands Memorial Hall

Last Saturday's community consultation event, held by Auckland Council to hear the community's thoughts about a proposed Beachlands Hub, saw dozens of people turn up to have their say.

Franklin Local Board is proposing to create a 'one stop shop' for council's public services in the Beachlands Memorial Hall. If adopted, the proposal would see the Beachlands Library relocate to the hall, and eventually the establishment of a staffed council office where people could access other council services such as paying rates and dog registrations. Other services, such as the Justices of the Peace service desk, could also relocate to the hall.

The proposal has been met with mixed reaction from the community.

Local JP Michael Sommerville says he is in favour of the idea, as long as the hall is appropriately upgraded and regular consultation takes place with the community.

Jodi Litherland runs Community Lunches at the hall, providing about 50 takeaway meals and hosting about 100 guests each month. It is an initiative her team has "proudly provided" and watched grow for over eight years, bringing the community together.

"I believe we are in need of a Community Hub, but not at the expense of losing the hall," says Jodi.

"With a population over 10k in the Beachlands/Maraetai area the hall is not a big enough facility to accommodate a hub and all the services it proposes to be able to provide and the various groups that will use it. The council have been saying they have been asking for a hub for 10 years, so it astounds me that 10 years later, all they can come up with is a re-purposing of our hall. It should be a purpose built facility, not just the token-sim that is currently being offered. They continually comment about there not being enough funds to build something new - but they are currently in the process of selling a couple of council owned sections that should gather a revenue of at least $2m, and if it's been in the pipeline for over 10 years - why haven't funds been secured since then?"

Romanda Beukes runs her dance tuition business, Dance Dynamix, from the hall. She says the proposal to turn the hall into a hub would directly affect her business, which is her sole income.

"We really rely on that space. Our target niche is kids and youth - a lot of what the board is advocating for is what I'm already offering for local kids, it allows them to connect and means parents don't have to travel out of the area. It's convenient, and kids can walk or ride their bikes to dance classes. If I have to move it will destroy my whole business ethos."

Romanda says finding another space is not an option.

Locals have their say on plans to turn the Beachlands Memorial Hall into a community hub.

"A hub would be amazing, we are not opposed to the idea - but it needs to be a purpose built building," she says.

The local line dancing group, whose 30 members regularly use the hall, are also concerned they might lose their venue.

Line dancing spokesperson Margaret Robertson was at the public consultation on Saturday, and said she and about a dozen other members of her group had filled in forms to have their say.

Margaret says her suggestions to Council include possibly obtaining some shipping containers that could be placed at the back of the hall for use, or bringing in a portable used house or tiny home.

"This community is not going to grow any more - it's growing over there [at Formosa] so it would be better to put something there! They have suggested we could use Te Puru, but it is expensive, and isn't set up for line dancing because it has no stage."

Sunny skies prompt excellent turnout for Clevedon Art Trail

The Clevedon Art Trail Open Studio event on 15 and 16 March was met with perfect weather and an impressive turnout.

The festivities kicked off on Friday night with the opening of the Clevedon Art Trail exhibition at Hallertau where a capacity crowd were treated to an artwork showcase while enjoying food and drinks.

Throughout the weekend art lovers flocked to studios, galleries, and venues along the trail. A series of hands-on workshops offered visitors the chance to create and connect with local artists.

Art Trail organiser Helen Morrison says: “A heartfelt thank you to everyone who made this event possible — the talented artists, welcoming venues and our dedicated supporters.

“Special gratitude to the Franklin Local Board for their ongoing support and funding, the Clevedon Community Business Association for providing a home for the event, and Hallertau for hosting the group exhibition and opening night.”

Beachlands rugby sevens stars ready to take on the world

Two Beachlands teens have been selected for Howick College's Rugby Sevens squad which will head to Japan next month to compete at the 2025 Sanix World Youth Invitational Tournament.

Charli Taituha and Ruby Holloway were part of Howick College's senior girls team which won every game at the February national champs, including a gripping final against Hamilton Girls High School. The win qualified them to attend the Sevens tournament in Japan.

Both girls developed their love of the oval ball through Beachlands Maraetai Rugby Club and the local touch competition, where they played as primary school students.

"I've always been interested," says Ruby. "Like it's been a big thing with my family, both of my brothers have played and my dad has always been really interested in rugby, like most are."

Charli says she has played rugby since the age of 8, and that she remembers hearing about Howick College taking a team to Japan to compete.

"I was like, 'they must be pretty good!'" Charli says.

Ruby and Charli say that attending Howick College was a no-brainer, due to the school's historical success with rugby. Both girls credit their recent winning performance at nationals to the strong team culture the school has developed.

"The team culture is so good," says Charli. "It keeps everyone in it the whole way through school. Everyone's pretty close now. Team culture is definitely the biggest thing, and our relationship with our coach Waisake [Sotutu] and our manager is good. We don't play as individuals, we play as a team and are so connected."

"We're not just teammates, we're friends now," says Ruby.

The past two months have been a whirlwind of trainings and fundraising activities. Funding the trip has meant many hours spent cooking sausage sizzles, selling pies, helping at the Maraetai half marathon, and helping run a golf day at Formosa organised by Ruby's parents. They hope to meet their fundraising goal by the time their flight departs on 18 April.

Both are cautious about rating their chances at the tournament in Japan. "We all really want to win, that's what we work towards, but I would be happy to make top four," says Charli. "It's a great achievement even getting there."

"Last time school went there, we came forth so it would be good to better that," says Ruby. "We know to expect a lot from the Japanese."

Portia Woodman-Wickliffe and Ruby Tui are "obvious" inspirations, the pair say. "But there hasn't been a Black Fern from Howick College. Yet!" says Ruby.

Relieving Buddy's ear issues

- by Franklin Vets

At Franklin Vets, we proudly recognise some of the incredible pets we care for through our Patient of the Month award. Each month, we spotlight one patient who has shown exceptional bravery, progress, or stands out as a beloved member of our clinic family.

This month's Patient of the Month award goes to Buddy! Buddy has consistently faced ear issues due to the structure of his ear canal. Luckily for Buddy, his owner has worked hard to keep them free from infections and wax buildup, with frequent vet visits and diligent ear cleaning.

Buddy recently went under general anaesthetic to have his ears flushed and cleaned. Throughout his visits, Buddy has been such a brave boy, letting our team do what's needed to help him. Unfortunately, without specialist reconstructive surgery, Buddy will always live with this condition. However, with proper care and maintenance, we can reduce infections and help Buddy live his best life!

Regular ear checks are essential for your dog's health and comfort. Clean, dry ears help prevent infections and other issues, especially in dogs that love to swim. Moisture can easily get trapped in your dog's ears, creating a perfect environment for bacteria and yeast to thrive.

If your dog enjoys swimming on our beautiful coastline, it's particularly important to dry their ears thoroughly after each swim and check for signs of redness, swelling, odour, or discharge.

Dogs experiencing discomfort may scratch at their ears, shake or tilt their heads.

We stock ear cleaning products, and our vet nurses are more than happy to show you how to clean your dog's ears.

That Was Wero Whitewater Park

Remember when Room 4 were fighting the suspense waiting to go whitewater rafting..

Remember practising all the different positions, like back and forward paddle, before we climbed the sleek, slippery conveyor belt, where we situated our feet under the booster seat.

That was getting ready for whitewater rafting!

Remember slipping down the end of the polished conveyor belt and into the glistening, glossy water and yelling at each other to paddle faster. Screaming as we went down the first rapid and getting soaked with water.

Remember plunging down the roaring rapids, screaming as though our life depended on it, and our hearts beating a million times a minute!!

Remember giggling at our instructor, as though she was crazy, when she said we could jump off the raft into the spine-tingling lake water.

That was whitewater rafting!

Remember manuing off the tiny cliff, into the screaming rapids and plunging under the raw, frigid water.

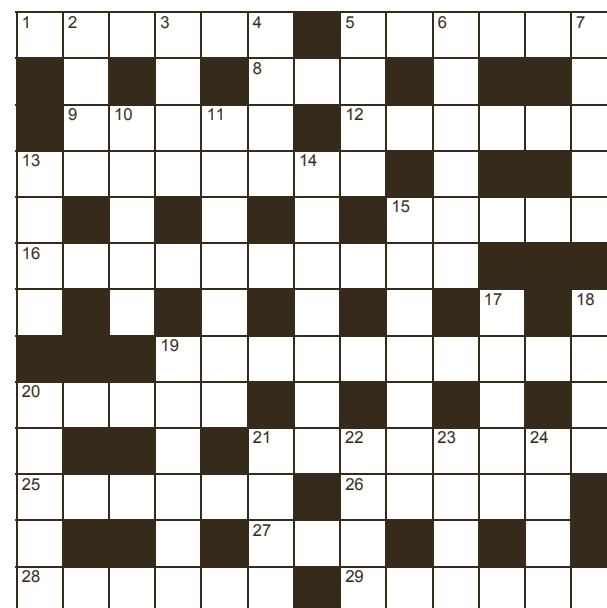

Remember falling off the paddleboards multiple times a minute and crashing into everyone who crossed our path!

Remember sitting at the edge of the lake, jealously watching Rooms 5 and 6 having the time of their life and fighting the urge to jump back into the water to join them!

That was Wero Whitewater Park!!
