The Y Camp Adair, Hūnua, has taken out the Te Tohu - Tiakina Taiao Environmental Leadership Award at the 2026 Outdoors Awards. Recreation Aotearoa hosts the awards, which recognise individuals and organisations making a real difference in Aotearoa's outdoor sector.

Camp Adair's winning programme, Nature's Classroom, was launched one year ago and has brought more than 200 students from eight local schools to the camp's 100-acre site to undertake freshwater testing, native species identification, and hands-on planting days. Each visiting school has contributed around 400 eco-sourced native plants to the restoration of the Wairoa River catchment, with seedlings grown on site in Camp Adair's own native plant nursery.

The programme is woven into the broader Wairoa River Restoration Project, tackling environmental challenges like invasive species, stormwater runoff and sedimentation, while building biodiversity along the riverbanks. Students learn about the environment while actively improving it. The programme is supported by Counties Energy, which has played an integral part in the project's success.

"Nature's Classroom is about giving young people meaningful, hands-on experiences that deepen their connection to community and environment, while building understanding of what it means to be kaitiaki," says The Y CEO Rebecca Russell. "This award is fantastic recognition of the work of so many - our students, volunteers, and partners. We are feeling very proud."

Camp Adair's Ecologist and River Restoration Manager Madeline Young developed and delivered the programme from the ground up. She says the response from schools has been extraordinary.

"The initial pilot was fully booked almost immediately, and that level of enthusiasm has only continued to grow," Madeline said. "It's been inspiring to see that energy from students and teachers alike, and to know they are contributing to something that will benefit the community for generations to come."

Camp Adair has run outdoor education programmes in the region since 1913, welcoming more than 20,000 students through its gates every year.

Editorial by Mayor of Auckland Wayne Brown

Transport reform gathers momentum

For anyone who has lived in the Auckland region over the past few years, it will come as no surprise that transport has been one of my key priorities since becoming Mayor.

Aucklanders elected me to help fix transport, and I’m pleased to say we’re heading in the right direction. Reform is progressing at pace, with decision-making returning to elected members and council set to regain greater control later this year.

I want to be clear: change is coming, but it won’t happen overnight. What Aucklanders will see, however, is a strong focus on practical improvements that make a real difference to everyday journeys.

Whether you live in Beachlands, Ardmore, Hūnua or anywhere in between, our priority is delivering simple, effective solutions - not expensive mega-projects or gold-plated distractions. We want better, faster and more cost-effective outcomes that make it easier for people to get where they need to go.

To ensure we hit the ground running, a number of initiatives are already in the pipeline, including:

A council-led review of all major transport projects over $20 million scheduled for delivery in the next two years, to ensure they align with our value-for-money principles.

Establishing a group of industry leaders and utility providers to identify ways to reduce the cost and disruption caused by road cones and temporary traffic management, which has cost ratepayers millions of dollars and too often remains in place longer than necessary.

Reviewing traffic light technology to understand how smarter systems can improve traffic flow and reduce delays.

Developing an ambitious programme of targeted improvements across Auckland’s arterial road network to remove bottlenecks and keep traffic, freight and buses moving more efficiently. More details on this programme will be shared soon.

It’s also an exciting time for Auckland’s transport future.

The opening of the City Rail Link later this year will significantly increase rail capacity and improve access across the city and wider region.

The recently announced Auckland Regional Deal also places transport firmly at the centre of our long-term planning. Through our partnership with Government, we’re committed to developing Auckland’s first integrated 30-year transport plan, focused on smart investments that reduce congestion, improve connectivity and strengthen our rapid transit network. This includes projects such as removing level crossings to keep people and goods moving safely and efficiently.

Bus driver safety remains another important priority. I was pleased to recently join Auckland Transport, bus operators and union representatives to mark the completion of the bus safety screen rollout. It’s a great example of what can be achieved when organisations work together with a clear focus and shared commitment to delivering results on time and on budget.

Finally, outside the transport space, I want to give a shout-out to the entrepreneurs who have put their hands up to be part of the 100-Days of Startup campaign. The response has been outstanding and highlights the vital role innovation plays in creating opportunities, fostering creativity and building wealth in Auckland.

You can find out more about the campaign through my social media channels.

As always, I’m focused on delivering practical results for Aucklanders, and I’ll continue to keep you updated on the progress we’re making.

Big Coast turnout at Te Puru for Matariki celebration event

More than 1,000 people turned out to Te Puru Community Centre last Sunday 12 July for the Pōhutukawa Coast Arts Hub’s Matariki Community Celebration.

Pōhutukawa Coast Arts Hub Charitable Trust Chair Samantha Donaldson says she was thrilled with the response.

The celebration included a local photography competition, with entries from across the community judged on connection to theme, creativity, effort, presentation and overall impression, under the theme “What Matariki Means to Me”. Visitors to the event were able to vote throughout the day for a People’s Choice winner.

Community activities including poi making, star weaving, a stamping workshop, a community art installation where visitors decorated stars, a bouncy castle and family games. Local artists displayed their work, while entertainment came courtesy of the Pōhutukawa Coast Choir and Maraetai Beach School’s kapa haka group. Kai was supplied by Mama’s Hangi.

The art awards drew entries across four age groups. In the 5–8 years category, Noah McCarthy took first prize, ahead of Max Barvinek in second and Indy Barker in third, with Special Judges’ Awards going to Zara Langton, Eliana Maltby and Beauden Aspinall. In the 9–11 years category, Emily Cleave placed first, Cairo Bracewell second and Michael Laker third, with Special Awards to Poppy Forde, Megan Russell and Abigail Banham. For 12–14 years, Skylar Los won first place, Phoebe Hollyman second and Elayna Coates third, with a Special Award to Zoe MacGillivray. In the 15–19 years category, Kyra Castles took first place and Daphne Laker second. The People’s Choice Award went to entry #24, Max Barvinek.

Judges were award-winning artist Caroline Burton, artist and Franklin Local Board member Alix Bonnington, and Rotary representative Sue Banham.

The event was organised by the Arts Hub alongside Te Puru, with the art competition funded by Pōhutukawa Coast Rotary (which has also offered to sponsor the competition in 2027) and the wider event funded by Franklin Local Board.

Samantha says the Arts Hub hopes to make the celebration an annual fixture, but the group will need more hands on deck to make it happen.

“It takes a community to make these events keep happening and Pōhutukawa Coast Arts Hub is just five people - we desperately need help both to keep the Arts Hub running, creating community events and opportunities for local artists and especially for a committee for this Matariki event which we hope will become an annual celebration.”

If you’d like to get involved, email pcartshub@gmail.com.

Police acknowledge IPCA findings into Ōrere Point critical incident

NZ Police has acknowledged the Independent Police Conduct Authority’s findings into a critical incident that occurred at Ōrere Point in March last year.

On 2 March 2025, Police located a vehicle in the Papakura area that was sought in connection with two aggravated robberies where a firearm had been presented.

The vehicle was tracked by units to Ōrere Point where it came to a stop on the beach.

Superintendent Shanan Gray, Counties Manukau District Commander, says staff encountered Mr Faasala Samu Matue who exited the vehicle brandishing a metal pole, acting aggressively towards Police, and resisting arrest.

“Force was used to try and bring Mr Matue under control, during which he bit the finger of an attending officer.”

After Mr Matue was eventually restrained, his condition deteriorated. Despite first aid efforts of attending staff he passed away at the scene.

Last week the IPCA’s independent investigation found that the force used by Police to detain Mr Matue did not contribute to his death.

A post-mortem showed Mr Matue had swallowed a large amount of methamphetamine. It also found MDMA, cannabis and alcohol in his bloodstream.

The IPCA findings determined that all but two instances of force used by Police were justified.

It also found language used by two officers on the beach was inappropriate.

Superintendent Gray says: “This was a tragic outcome for everyone concerned and our thoughts are with Mr Matue’s family.

“I would like to acknowledge our staff who were dealing with an extremely volatile and confronting incident at the time.

“The language and unjustified use of force identified in the report was unacceptable and a departure from our values.

“While we cannot comment on the specifics of the employment process that followed, we can advise that the officers involved are still employed by New Zealand Police.”

Portuguese community celebrates first Portugal Day event in Beachlands

Around 150 members of New Zealand’s Portuguese community gathered at Beachlands Memorial Hall last month to celebrate Portugal Day, Camões Day and the Day of the Portuguese Communities.

It’s the first time a celebration of this kind has been held at Beachlands Memorial Hall, bringing together Portuguese families and friends from across New Zealand for a day of culture, food, music and community connection.

Guests enjoyed a range of traditional Portuguese dishes, live music, dancing and entertainment, while reconnecting with friends and celebrating the heritage Portuguese New Zealanders continue to preserve and pass on to future generations.

A highlight of the event was the attendance of the Honorary Consul of Portugal, Davide Teixeira.

“Today we celebrate much more than a country. We celebrate our language, our culture, our traditions and our roots,” he said.

“We have a hardworking and respected community that contributes to this country every day. We should be proud of what we have achieved and continue to support one another.”

Davide also spoke about the significance of his recent appointment as Honorary Consul and the opportunity it provides to strengthen ties between Portugal and New Zealand, while supporting the growing

The Portuguese community gather at the Beachlands Memorial Hall to celebrate Portugal Day.

Portuguese community across the upper North Island.

The celebration recognised the many Portuguese families who have left their homeland in search of new opportunities, while maintaining connections to their culture and traditions.

The event included a traditional toast to Portugal, Portuguese communities around the world, friendship, family and the future, followed by a heartfelt “Viva Portugal!” from those gathered.

Local organiser Pedro Silva described the day as a great success, and says he hopes Portugal Day in Beachlands will become an annual tradition.

Coast road opening delayed

It will be a few more weeks before the Maraetai Coast Road reopens to traffic.

The road was scheduled to reopen in June. However Auckland Transport has requested that the road closure remains in place until 14 August to enable road repairs to be undertaken.

Vector has completed most of its undergrounding work and is now focused on the final section of the project. Vector will use the extended closure period to safely complete the remaining undergrounding works.

Vector Community Engagement Manager Teina Teariki Mana says completing both activities during the existing closure helps avoid the need for additional road closures and further disruption to the community later.

Pedestrian and cyclist access will continue to be maintained, and the detour via Clevedon remains in place. Electronic signage boards have been updated to reflect the revised closure dates.

“We recognise the closure has been disruptive for residents, businesses and road users, and we appreciate the community’s patience while these important works are completed,” says Teina.

Portugal’s favourite treats were enjoyed by guests at Portugal Day.

Making conversations about death easier

- by Aroha Funerals

If someone suggested meeting for coffee at a Death Café, would you know what they meant?

Despite the name, they're not grief support groups or counselling sessions. A Death Café is a relaxed gathering where people come together over coffee and cake to have open conversations about death, dying and grief. There isn't a guest speaker, there are no presentations and nobody is expected to share more than they're comfortable with. It's a place where people can talk about a topic that most of us don't discuss until we have to.

Death Cafés have been growing in popularity across Auckland, with regular gatherings now taking place in libraries, cafés and community spaces. They're part of a wider movement helping people feel more comfortable talking about death and planning ahead.

This September, Death Cafés will be one of a number of events taking place during Dying Matters Week (7-13 September), a national week focused on encouraging conversations about end-of-life planning, caregiving and grief. Locally, Aroha Funerals is supporting the work of the not-for-profit organisations behind Dying Matters Week, with events planned to include a Death Café, advance care planning sessions and other opportunities for people to learn more about planning ahead and the support available.

Dying Matters Week is about encouraging conversations that most of us tend to avoid until we have to have them. It's also an opportunity to highlight the many people and organisations supporting those who are dying, caring for others or living with grief. As supporters of Compassionate Communities Aotearoa, we're pleased to support this work and help bring these conversations and events to our local community.

If you'd like to learn more about Dying Matters Week or the local events taking place, contact Aroha Funerals on info@arohafunerals.co.nz. We'll be happy to let you know what's planned and how you can get involved.

A new era for Howick eye care: two trusted practices become one

- by Howick Village Optometrists

For years, Howick Village Optometrists and Thompson Optometrists have built proud reputations in East Auckland. Both independent practices became local staples, recognised for their clinical expertise, genuine care, and deep community roots.

Now, they are taking an exciting step forward together. The two respected teams have officially joined forces to become OCULA Howick Village.

For loyal patients, the most reassuring news is that who you see and how you're cared for stays exactly the same. The practice remains proudly independent and locally owned by Danielle and John Winstone, and you'll be greeted by the same familiar faces - the entire clinical and retail team you've known and trusted for years has moved together into the new, shared space.

The move brings together the best of both practices into a single destination. By pooling their collective knowledge and history, the combined team now offers an even deeper level of specialist clinical services for local families.

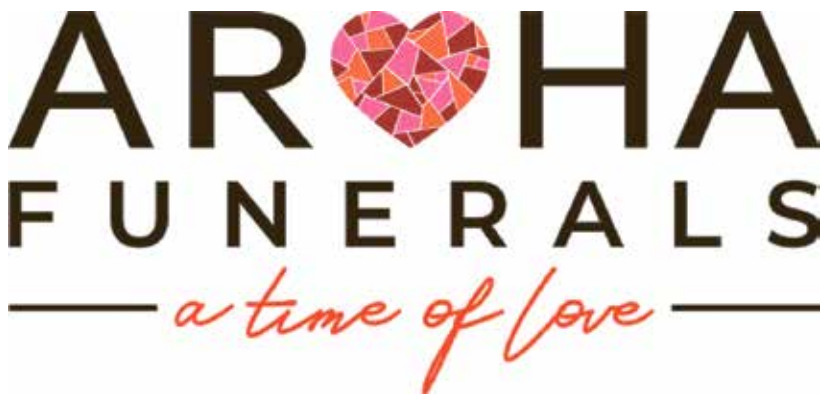

While the personal, dedicated care remains unchanged, the physical environment has received a stunning upgrade. OCULA Howick Village has relocated just a few steps down the road into a beautifully designed, purpose-built facility at 92 Picton Street.

The new clinic introduces advanced technology, including specialised treatments like intense pulsed light (IPL) therapy for long-term dry eye relief. Alongside expanded clinical care, the practice features a curated collection of unique designer frames and boutique eyewear brands, centred on premium craftsmanship and style.

Reaching the team is as simple as it has always been: all original phone numbers and email addresses remain unchanged.

Whether you were a long-term patient of Thompson Optometrists, a regular at Howick Village Optometrists, or are simply looking for exceptional independent eye care, the team looks forward to welcoming you to their beautiful new home for vision.

OCULA Howick Village is now open at 92 Picton Street. Pop in to see the new space, or call (09) 534 8716 to book your next appointment.

How to spot drain problems early

- by Hydrovac

Most homeowners don't think much about what's happening underground... until something goes wrong. A blocked drain, overflowing gully trap or slow-running toilet can quickly turn from a minor inconvenience into an expensive and unpleasant problem. That's where underground CCTV inspections come in.

CCTV drain inspections involve sending a specialised camera through underground pipes and drainage systems to identify issues that can't be seen from the surface. It's one of the most effective ways to understand the condition of a property's drains without needing to dig or guess.

For many homeowners, a CCTV inspection is first considered when there's already an issue. Common warning signs include:

- Recurring blocked drains
- Bad smells around the property
- Slow-draining sinks, showers or toilets
- Gurgling sounds in pipes
- Pooling water outside
- Overflowing gully traps during heavy rain

In these situations, a camera inspection can quickly identify the cause - it might be tree roots, cracked pipes, grease build-up, collapsed sections or foreign objects lodged in the line. Rather than repeatedly treating the symptoms with chemicals, CCTV helps pinpoint the real problem so it can be properly resolved.

But CCTV inspections aren't only useful when something has gone wrong. Many homeowners now use them as a preventative maintenance tool to check the overall health of their drainage systems before major issues develop. Older homes in particular can benefit from routine inspections, as ageing pipes may deteriorate over time without obvious warning signs above ground.

A CCTV inspection can also be worthwhile:

- Before purchasing a property
- Before subdividing
- After major storms or flooding
- Before landscaping or renovation work
- If large trees are growing near drainage lines
- As part of routine property maintenance

Regular drain flushing combined with CCTV inspections is another smart way to keep systems operating properly. High-pressure water jetting can remove grease, silt, wipes and debris before they turn into stubborn blockages, while the camera confirms the pipes have been thoroughly cleared and checks for any underlying damage.

COASTAL CAT RESCUE'S

CAT OF THE MONTH

Meet Martini and Milo.

This sister and brother team were the cutest things to come out of a skip bin two years ago. Trapped in rural Whitford, taken into care and adopted to a home. Sadly, circumstances have changed and Martini and Milo find themselves on the search for a new address where they can be part of a new family and find security and love for life.

Martini and Milo are bonded and are the perfect combination. Milo is adventurous, loves to explore and is an outdoorsy kind of cat. He loves to play, is energetic and enjoys a back scratch and tummy rub from people he knows. Martini is a calm, gentle and intelligent cat. Like her brother she is slightly shy with new people but in a short amount of time she will show her cuddly side and join her human friends on the couch for pats and playtime.

Can you offer these lovely young cats security and the chance to be part of your family?

Martini and Milo would suit a home with older or no children and off busy roads. They are not familiar with dogs and are vet-checked, desexed and vaccinated, are up to date with flea and worm treatment and are microchipped which will be registered to new owner.

If you would like to know more about Martini and Milo please email coastalcatrescue@gmail.com. We will forward our adoption enquiry. Please include a little about yourself and the home you can offer a deserving rescue companion. An adoption donation applies.

FOOD AND ENTERTAINMENT

Apple, blueberry and cinnamon oat muffins recipe

Perfect for breakfast on the go or an afternoon snack! They pair well with a dollop of cream cheese on top.

Makes - 15 muffins

Ingredients:

- 2 eggs
- 1½ cups milk
- ½ cup applesauce
- ½ cup maple syrup
- 3 cups whole rolled oats
- 1 tsp baking powder
- 1½ tsp cinnamon
- Sprinkle of nutmeg
- ¼ tsp salt
- 1 medium peeled and chopped apple (Around 1cm cubes)
- 1/3 cup frozen blueberries
- ¼ cup chopped pre-roasted macadamia nuts (optional)

Method:

1. Preheat the oven to 180°C. Spray muffin tins with a generous amount of oil, preferably use a silicone one as the muffins will release more easily.
2. In a large bowl whisk all the ingredients together apart from the apples, blueberries and nuts. Fold the apples blueberries and nuts in with a spatula until just combined. The batter will be liquidy.
3. Scoop the batter into the prepared tins, fill each cup all the way to the top (they do not rise). Make sure the batter is evenly distributed (including the liquid part of the batter).
4. Bake for 25-30 minutes until the tops are lightly browned and a toothpick comes out with only crumbs.
5. Let cool for 10 minutes before serving.
6. Store muffins in an airtight container in the fridge or freezer.

LOCAL STUDENTS' NEWS, VIEWS & LITERARY TALENT

This column features news, views and literary talents of students from Beachlands, Maraetai, Clevedon, Brookby, Hunua, Paparimu, Orere and Ardmore Schools.

One student featured each week will be presented with a certificate and a $20 book voucher, thanks to Barfoot & Thompson's Beachlands and Whitford branches.

Why our school should invest in a distortion pedal

Dear Mr G

You might be thinking a distortion pedal sounds unnecessary or you could be thinking otherwise. But I am here to tell you that it is a great idea. And they're not as expensive as you may think, they range from 50 to 70 dollars (used). My first reason is the sound/tone. It gives off a fuzzy and distorted tone which is good for playing selected songs. It also helps to explore different music genres like rock, metal, punk and blues. It can help us find more songs we like in those genres

My second reason is... It can help if a school ever starts a band. It would help in a band by really making that tone perfect so it sounds like original pieces. Say Nirvana for example their song 'Smells like teen spirit' uses distortion at the start of the song which makes it really catchy.

My final reason... It gives students more creativity. By buying the pedal it lets students mess around with tones and experiment with them and sometimes even create original musical pieces. Also come to think of it if we fundraise enough money we could possibly be the smallest school in New Zealand with a music classroom which would be a really cool school title to have.

So we have covered only three reasons why we should buy a distortion pedal. I could one hundred percent list many more reasons. So thank you for hopefully reading this whole thing.

Myself and Mrs Madden researched the pedals and found a great deal of $60 on Trade Me.

- by the one and only Archer, Brookby School
